ra Information Systems partner with Zavanti to serve growing UK property development market

Chesterfield, UK – July 21st, 2008 – ra Information Systems, providers of specialist IT software and services are pleased to announce a strategic reseller partnership with Zavanti, a leader in the development of comprehensive project accounting and management solutions for the property, construction and engineering sector. Under this agreement, ra information systems will be the official distributor of Zavanti's complete ERP suite for the property and construction sector in the UK and Ireland.

"We are very pleased to have ra Information Systems as a partner," said Nick Virr, General Manager Zavanti UK. "Forming a strategic partnership with a well established UK business renowned for its high service levels and client dedication is a great step forwards for Zavanti."

ra will help grow Zavanti's UK market by offering the company's property and construction solutions in key regions. As a value added distributor, ra will provide sales, marketing, pre-sales technical advice, post sales support and chargeable consultancy services for assisted deployment of Zavanti's solutions.

Noël Kennedy, ra's Business Development manager said, "This is a massive opportunity for both ra as a business and for the UK property and construction market. In offering a well proven enterprise solution, we can bring about choice and help continue best practise in UK industry."

Zavanti's industry leading ERP suite provides seamless integration between the key processes associated with project planning, forecasting and accounting. From initial site and concept feasibility and project estimating through to full financial and subcontractor management, and sales, Zavanti helps developers and construction contractors maintain control over their project finances, information flows and business operations.
